PLAN SUNRISE SERVICE ON EASTER MORN

Northwest Section Dedicates Branch Library

CITY OFFICIALS ASSIST IN PRESENTING PROGRAM

Ceremony Takes Place In Grand View School With More Than 300 Persons Present; Brief Talks, Songs; Other Pleasing Features

AN event of outstanding importance to the people of the northwest section of the city was celebrated last night at the Grand View school, with the official presentation by the Glendale library board of the new branch library in the east wing of the school house. Over 300 residents of the district and others attended.

Numerous prominent speakers were on the carefully arranged program, which was conducted by President Alexander Mitchell of the Foothill Improvement Association, among them Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, City Manager William H. Reeves, City School Superintendent Richardson D. White, City Librarian Mrs. Alma Danford, the members of the City Council, the library board and others.

The program opened with "Salute to the Flag," led by little Miss Gene Finch, and was followed by the singing of "America".

Mr. Mitchell briefly stated the purpose of the occasion, namely, to officially receive as citizens the library presented by the board, and to join in a spirit of communal gratitude for this satisfying culmination to over a year of effort toward that end.

Following a piano solo by Miss Frances Mae Colburn, Richardson D. White addressed the assemblage in a tone of congratulation on the acquisition of such a fine branch library, stating that the people of that district know what the good things are and go out and get them.

Go Hand and Hand

He was glad, he said, that the library was in the school building, as the two institutions go rightfully hand in hand, in the education of children, pointing out that a child is acquiring education sixteen hours every day, and only six of these hours in school.

The factors in education, besides school, Mr. White brought out, include the home, the street, the church and the library.

He then traced briefly the history of libraries from King Solomon's time, down through the ages to the present, pointing out how this institution has gradually broadened its service until it has become in the twentieth century one of the most vital factors in our civilization.

Presentation Address

Olin Spencer, president of the library board, followed with a brief presentation address, telling the people of the district that he realized this was only a beginning, and urging them to keep on until they obtained a library building of their own.

In this connection Mr. Spencer urged them to buy a plot of ground for the purpose while values were still reasonable, this being in his opinion the very best way to lay the foundation of the movement for such a building.

Mr. Mitchell then, in behalf of the assemblage, then accepted the library and thanked Mr. Spencer and his associates for their cooperation.

"There is the same difference between an educated and an uneducated man," said Mr. Mitchell, "as there is between a live man and a dead man. Abraham Lincoln abolished slavery over a half-century ago—and yet it is still only half abolished. We can never be wholly free until our minds as well as our bodies are enfranchised."

On Behalf of P.-T. A.

Guy W. Finney, newspaper man, then delivered a short address in behalf of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Grand View school, stating that education in its best sense is gained by hard personal application, and that a branch library in the district, with back of it all the resources of the main institution in

WILL MEET HEADS OF CIVIC BODIES

C. of C. Directors to Discuss Plans for Teamwork in City's Work

Invitations have been issued to the presiding officers of all civic and business organizations in Glendale to meet tomorrow night with the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, to discuss the relations that exist between the Chamber of Commerce and the various civic and business bodies. The meeting will be held at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Citizens building.

It is the desire of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to bring about a full and free discussion of civic and business problems and to pave the way for a close co-operation between the organization and the other bodies that will be represented, in order that Glendale may have the benefit of teamwork in every branch of its civic life.

Meet P. E. Officials

Arrangements have been completed for a conference between a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of Peter Ferry, Thomas Watson and W. E. Evans, and D. W. Pontius, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, and other officials of the railway, in Los Angeles tomorrow, when the question of lower fares between Glendale and Los Angeles will be taken up. Other matters in which the city and the Pacific Electric are mutually interested will also come up for discussion, and it is the hope of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce that much good may result from the conference.

HOLD CONFERENCE

International Honors Will Be Paid Sarah Bernhardt

PARIS, March 27.—Messages of condolence from all nations poured into Paris today, expressing the world's sorrow over the death of Madame Sarah Bernhardt—"the Divine Sarah," who died last night.

The body was embalmed today and placed within a rosewood coffin. In death the face was serene and calm, just as it had been when Sarah passed away from lite into the valley of death.

Maurice Bernhardt, son of the world-famous actress, conferred with the leading theatrical men of Paris regarding the funeral. International honors will be paid to Mme. Bernhardt. It is expected that all nations will be represented. Interment probably will be made on Friday.

President Millerand and Premier Poincare were among the first to extend their sympahy to members of Mme. Bernhardt's family. They said that they felt a great French citizen and an international force for extending French friendship had passed away.

Abbe Rissler of the Roman Catholic church of St. Francois, who administered the last rites and was present when Mme Bernhardt died, said today he had never seen such a peaceful death.

"It was like going to sleep," said the clergyman. "Her eyes were closed, her features were composed and serene. She was at peace with the world and felt no fear for the future. She was a good woman."

Blackmail Attempt, W. S. Hart's Reply To Woman's Story

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—An attempt to squeeze $50,000 from William S. Hart, motion picture star, lies behind the charges that he is the father of a son born out of wedlock, according to his personal attorney, John G. Scarborough, Sr., who today made a categorical denial of the charges made against the actor by a woman whose name is kept secret, but who revealed her charges to the district attorney's office.

Mr. Scarborough claimed the woman's story was false, that Mr. Hart had never agreed to pay $50 a month or any other sum to the support of this child and that he would defy any person anywhere to produce any paper bearing Mr. Hart's signature showing he was a party to such an agreement.

Mr. Scarborough made the announcement that as far as investigators for Mr. Hart could ascertain no child had ever been born to the woman who claims to be the mother at the place she asserts the birth took place.

Posse Seeks Hiding Place of Old Posey

BLANDING, Utah, March 27.—United States Marshal J. Ray Ward, with a small posse, left today for the supposed "hangout" of Old Posey, sole remaining "outlaw" of the recent Indian uprising, with the purpose of inducing the 100-year-old chieftain to surrender to the United States forces without further trouble.

Examination of captured Indians brought out that Old Posey is still hiding in the rocks and ledges of Allen canyon without a horse or food, but has a rifle and can live off the country. Returned posse members failed to find his tracks leading out of the country, and are inclined to believe the Indians' stories of his whereabouts are true. Old Posey's son accompanied the posse.

Word reached here today that one wounded 'Ute had made his way into New Mexico and another missing was dead.

Serious Situation in Hungary; Many Slain

BELGRADE, March 27.—A serious situation exists in Hungary with fighting in progress between government forces and insurgents led by General Kronoy, said advices from the frontier today. Many persons are reported to have been killed and wounded.

The trouble started when the value of Hungarian money began to fall on the exchange market and prices began to rise. A general strike was proclaimed. Then fighting broke out. Demand is being made that the government of Count Bethlen at Budapest resign.

New York's Governor For Wine and Beer

ALBANY, N. Y., March 27.—Governor Smith believes a majority of the people of New York state favor an amendment to the Volstead act that will permit the use of light wines and beer of a small alcoholic content.

The governor expressed this this opinion in a letter he sent today to United States Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who had taken exception to the action of the New York legislature in memorializing congreses for a modification of the Volstead law.

Japan Again Refuses Demands of China

TOKIO, March 27.—China's second demand for abrogation of the "twenty-one" demand treaties will go back unconsidered. A note accompanying the return of the Chinese plea will state the matter is a closed issue. This was the official statement today upon receipt of word that Peking was dispatching a second request for reconsideration of the treaties.

Impressive Easter Services For Presbyterian Church

UNUSUALLY impressive Easter services have been arranged by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, and members of the church quartet, Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, director; Miss Elizabeth Mottern, J. Malcomson Huddy and Robert S. Maile.

The first Easter observance at the church will be an hour of worship and meditation at 8 o'clock Saturday night. At that time the quartet will present Stainer's "Crucifixion."

At the Sunday morning service there will be special selections by the quartet and Marjorie Jean Bailey will give harp solos. Rev. Edmonds will give an Easter sermon.

Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock there will be a vesper hour that will undoubtedly be the most impressive service of the day. Opening the service will be on organ recital by Oscar F. Walton. There will be selections by the church quartet and the glee club from the Bible Institute. Rev. Edmonds will give an Easter message at this service.

Free will offerings will be received at the Sunday services, to which the public is welcome.

Illinois Grand Jury Probes Charges Of Trial Bribery

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 27.—With two of four requested true bills reported voted, the grand jury resumed its investigation today of alleged bribery charges made against the jury that acquitted Governor Len Small last June. The governor was tried on the charge of misappropriating state interest funds.

The men said to have been indicted are:

Edward Kaufman, alleged liquor runner in Chicago.

Edward Courtney, convicted robber.

The grand jury, it is understood, was informed by State's Attorney A. V. Smith that enough information had been presented to warrant the indictment of both these men, and also the indictment of William Riley, formerly a saloon-keeper of Antioch, Ill., who is said to have confessed receiving and dispensing bribe money, and J. Biernie Fields, a juror in the trial.

Conspiracy to impede justice is said to be one of the counts in the indictments reported to have been returned.

Leslie Small, the governor's son, was among the witnesses expected to go before the grand jury today.

Orders Piggly Wiggly Co. To Cease Sale Of Stock

CHICAGO, March 27.—Arthur G. Davis, head of the securities department in the office of the secretary of state, announced this afternoon that he had ordered the Piggly Wiggly Company to cease its sale of stock in Illinois. While the stock was cavorting up and down on the New York exchange, it was being sold "over the counter" in Chicago by the Piggly Wiggly Investment Company at $55 a share.

Davis acted under a provision of the Illinois securities law, he explained, which releases from the act "control stocks in Class A," which are dealt in on the New York, Boston or Chicago stock exchanges. Immediately Piggly Wiggly was stricken from the New York and Chicago floors, Davis contends, he was authorizzed to withdraw it from sale to the public if he thought its value questionable.

The stock being sold "over the counter" was disposed of on a time payment basis, delivery deferred.

Burbank Man Ends Life; Worry Over Income Tax Cause

LOS ANGELES, March 27—The income tax was officially recorded as a motive for suicide today when John Willison, aged 35, of Burbank, shot and killed himself in his room after writing a note in which he declared he was driven to take his life by worry over his income tax.

Neighbors found the body. A gun, with one shot fired, was found by his side.

In his note Willison recited at great length the worries that had been his since he first became alarmed over the situation of his income tax.

Day by day the thing pressed upon his mind until he could not stand it any longer.

Then he decided to end his troubles and leave this life with its income tax problems, the note said.

Willison did not have any relatives, his neighbors declared.

Daugherty's Son Now In Girl Murder Case

NEW YORK, March 27.—The latest development in the murder of beautiful young Dorothy Keenan King, divorcee, that Draper Daugherty, only son of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, had been her friend, as well as John Kearsley Mitchell, the son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury, a J. P. Morgan partner, shared public interest today with curiosity as to the identity of the slayer.

Dramatic developments surrounding the girl's death; the demand for love letters by which rich and prominent men could be blackmailed; the struggle in the luxurious apartment; the deep plotting and the cunning conception of the crime are transcending the public's desire to know the name of the killer. It is generally believed that he is some obscure person unknown outside of the all-night cabarets of Broadway.

Fight Death Sentence Of Catholic Prelate

WARSAW, March 27.—Polish officials declared positively today that Poland will break off relations with Russia if the soviet executes Archbishod Cieplak, a native of Poland and a Roman Catholic prelate, who was condemned to death yesterday in Moscow.

Archbishop Cieplak's execution was set for Thursday. It is understood that Great Britain, Italy and the Vatican made protests against the death sentence, asking that it be changed to expulsion. It is believed in some circles that this will be done.

Tremendous excitement prevails throughout Poland, as practically all of the church prelates were natives of this country.

The Polish diet has adopted a resolution appealing to all nations to intervene in behalf of the churchmen.

Hoover Not to Start Cotton Market Probe

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Replying to demands for an investigation of the cotton market by southern cotton producers, Secretary Hoover announced today no inquiry would be inaugurated by the department of commerce.

"The department of commerce is not an organization to investigate conspiracies, monopolies and illegal combinations, except where alleged illegalities occur outside of the United States," Hoover explained. "Cotton is practically all produced in this country."

BIG GATHERING SUNDAY ON MOUNT FOREST LAWN

Impressive Ceremony Will Take Place Just As Sun Peeps Over Hills; Large Chorus Is Feature; Program Being Completed

WHEN the sun comes up at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning, ushering in Easter Day, 1923, there will be a great gathering on Mount Forest Lawn in Forest Lawn Memorial Park to greet the day with devotions and song in commemoration of the Resurrection.

In the early days when the Mission fathers contemplated the erection of a mission their first act was the erection of a cross on the mission site, and this custom has been happily followed in Glendale sunrise greeting of Easter day.

In anticipation of the service Sunday morning a great white wooden cross, twenty feet in heighth and electrically lighted has been installed on Mount Forest Lawn. It is on a revolving base and every night from now until Easter day it will cast its light out over the great park and neighboring communities and beckon peoples from miles distant for the sunrise service.

The service is to be an historical event, marking as it does the establishment of an annual custom that will doubtless outrival other gatherings of the kind that have been held in other parts of Southern California for many years.

Community Service Aids

Glendale Community Service in cooperation with the management of Forest Lawn Memorial park and civic and religious organizations are carrying out plans for the service.

For those who are contemplating attending it is stated that Mount Forest Lawn is the highest hill in the park and overlooks Glendale and neighboring cities and towns. From the summit a panoramic view can be had of mountains, hills, mesas, valley lands and the Pacific ocean.

Motorists traveling to the service should enter the main entrance of the park at the junction of Glendale avenue and San Fernando road. The roads through the park will lead to the drive up the hill. Adequate police control of the traffic is to be provided. Those walking may reach the summit of the hill by paths leading up the left side.

Veteran Actor to Attend

Featuring the service will be the reading of Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air" by Frederick Warde, veteran actor beloved by Southern Californians.

The sun is scheduled to rise at 5:38 o'clock and just at that hour the sound of bugles from nearby hills will herald the day. This will open the service.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, will give the morning prayer, which will be followed by a choral number by the big community chorus led by Prof. J. B. Poulin.

Frederick Warde will then read and Constance Balfour will give a vocal number.

Chorus Wednesday Night

Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the First Congregational church, will give the closing prayer and benediction.

V. M. Hollister, head of Community Service here, will preside.

In perfecting plans for the service every effort is being made to assemble a mammoth chorus and A. L. Baird, chairman of the music committee of Community Service, has issued a call for more singers. The final rehearsal of the chorus is to be held at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday night in the Glendale Union High school auditorium.

THREATENING FLAMES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Explosion of a plumber's retort in two new flats in the course of construction threatened a section of the Richmond residential section with destruction by flames today.

LANKERSHIM MEN DISCUSS CREDIT

Visiting Business Men Are Guests at Luncheon of Local Association

Representatives of the Lankershim Business Men's Association were the guests at luncheon yesterday of the Glendale Credit Association, those present being E. Ray Engleson, president; C. W. Schmidt, vice president; Frank J. Cornwell, secretary; and Hall E. was the principal speaker, and he told of the organization of the Lankershim association some two months ago and discussed some of the problems that have confronted it since its inception. The other members of the Lankershim delegation were introduced to the members of the local organization, and the methods of handling commercial credits and of making investigations for the protection of merchants were taken up during the informal discussions that were held.

Miss Marie Oliver, one if Glendale's best known musicians, and the Shrine Club's candidate for Queen of the Merchants Industrial Exposition, sang two songs, being accompanied by Mrs. Reed Williams.

The regular weekly discussion of names was held and a quantity of routine business was transacted.

Husband Faces Trial For Wife's Murderer

SANTA CRUZ, March 27.—As the trial of John P. Masters, realty broker, for the murder of his wife Elizabeth, opened here today it was apparent that a long time would be consumed in getting a jumy.

A panel of 200 veniremen were summoned for the first day, but it was anticipated that this number would be exhausted before the twelve jurors who will hear the evidence are secured. Thereafter jurors will be summoned in batches of fifty, it was expected.

Mrs. Masters was beaten to death with an iron bar as she slept. The husband claimed she was killed by burglars while the state contends he wielded the bar.

Red Witness Parries Prosecution's Shafts

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 27. The superb aplomb with which C. E. Ruthenberg, a co-defendant and defense witness, continued today to meet baffling questions shot at him by the prosecution, outlined him sharply as the Disraeli among the thirty-one radicals accused with William Z. Foster, defendant, of syndicalism.

Ruthenberg, secretary of the workers' party and the next to be tried as a result of the Bridgman, Mich., communist party raid, went calmly through another day of cross examination with admirable poise.

Two Prisoners Escape From Federal Prison

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—Gerald Cooper, serving twenty-five years for forgery, and Frank Grey, serving five years for holding up the driver of a mail truck, fled from the federal prison here today. They held up a man and his wife and forced them to aid in their escape.

Chapman had been sentenced from New York for the sensational $3,000,000 robbery of a mail truck in that city.

Pennsylvania Rejects Daylight Saving Time

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 27.—Daylight saving time in Pennsylvania received a setback today when the senate passed the Derrick bill prohibiting the adoption by municipalities of any other time than Standard Eastern time. The vote was 34 to 14.

OUCH!

"I can't keep the visitors from coming up," said the office boy dejectedly to the editor. "When I say you're out they don't believe me. They say they must see you."

"Well," said the editor, "just tell them that's what they all say. I don't care if you sass them. I must have quietness."

That afternoon there called at the office a lady, and she wanted to see the editor. The boy assured her that it was impossible.

"But I must see him!" she protested. "I'm his wife."

"That's what they all say," replied the boy.

Controversy Raging Over Teachers' Degree

WALLA WALLA, Wash., March 27.—Reciprocity of certification of public school teachers between the United States and France is involved in a controversy over the granting of Mrs. Yvonne K. Navas former citizen of France, a right to teach in the high school here. Mrs. Navas was recently discharged by the city school board because Mrs. Josephine Preston, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, refused to issue a certificate to her on the grounds that she does not possess the required bachelor's degree.

Mrs. Navas declares that she has received the equivalent of a degree of bachelor of arts in a private school for women in France, which at that time was the only sort of institution of higher learning that women were permitted to attend. She says that she has been granted a permit to teach in the secondary schools of France by the French government and that she will secure evidence of it through the American Ambassador in Paris and will use it to force the local school board to reinstate her or pay her the remainder of her salary for the present school year, which ends in June.

ASA HALL GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Candidate for City Council Promises City Business Administration

Asa Hall, candidate for city councilman, requests The Evening News to make the following statement to voters:

To the electors of the city of Glendale: I am a candidate for the office of councilman to be voted for at the coming election on April 10. Have been a resident of Southern California for nearly thirty-four years, having resided in and around the city of Los Angeles during all that time. Have been a taxpayer in Glendale for over twelve years. Am one of the founders of the California Fruit Growers Exchange which since its inception has been the salvation of the orange and lemon industry of Southern California. For a number of years was president of the Glendora Citrus Association at Glendora, as also a director of the A. C. G. Fruit Exchange at Azusa. From 1907 to March 1921, when I tendered my resignation and came to Glendale to live, was the head bookkeeper and accountant of the city auditor's office in Los Angeles preparing tax ordinances and making tax levies, apportioning all city money, handling all the bonded indebtedness, compiling and issuing the auditor's annual report each year, which the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., as well as the National Association of Accountants and Controllers designated and held up as the model report of all cities in our country.

I am an ardent believer in efficiency in all municipal matters, but I want it to be efficiency in fact, not in name only. There is no reason whatever why Glendale should not have one of the most economical as well as efficient strictly business administrations possible, and if I am elected to office, I pledge you my honor that I will do everything I possibly can at all times to accomplish that end. I am in favor of a complete and efficient sewer system, and no time should be lost in arriving at a definite decision as to what the system should be, so that construction work could proceed, as it will very materially add to our future growth as a city. Having no business interests to take up my time, am in a position to devote my best attention to the various interests of our fair city, and if you think I will be the right man in the right place, shall be pleased to have you cast your vote in my favor.

COMMENT That's All

History Repeating Itself
Recall Jackson Tragedy
Hist! Asher Is Coming!
Too Much Dope Is Made

By Gil A. Cowan

ICE jams on the Missouri river and its tributaries are playing hob in the middle west. Nothing more or less than history repeating itself and any one who has lived along the Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri or other central states' waterways knows just what a grand scrabble and glorious mass a late winter makes for residents of the lowlands.

From time immemorial the human race has settled on river bottoms, rearing cities, building railroads, developing farms right in the pathway of flood waters. They would rather gamble with fate than get away from the courses.

At the races, too, it is necessary to club the crowd off of the courses. And if a fire breaks out everyone insists on getting past the danger lines. It is one of the many unintelligent phenomena of psychology.

The damage done by the floods is to be regretted, but we'll bet another generation will see history repeating itself.

Jackson, scene of the Argonaut mine disaster, was host Saturday night to newspaper correspondents, a sort of reunion as it were, of those who broadcasted to the world the fate of the sixty-five entombed miners.

It was the writer's privilege to attend this gathering and hear the tales of heroism, and meet the undaunted spirits, and see the spot which was the center of world attention some eight or nine months ago.

And you can tell the world that Jackson has a heart. It is one of the most humanly interesting mining camps of the country—and we have seen several.

Some day when you are journeying into the byways of California, drop in and say "hello" to Jackson.

From reports current the famed federal dry detective, Asher by name, is headed for the Pacific coast to ferret out the private stocks of booze. Others have come and some have gone, in the dry crusades, but Asher is known as the man of 100 disguises.

First, he has appeared as street corner violinist, then an organ grinder, a society rounder, and so forth. He collected $34,000 in fines at Louisville and left five of his "friends" in jail as the result of a month's crusade.

The fact that he is in the west should put lots of people on guard.

Another dry story worth telling is the "motion picture outfit" which visited Truckee the past week. They went there with the avowed intention of shooting snow pictures and incidentally "located" numerous stills. Their director was a prohibition agent and their star another. The success of their production undoubtedly will be quite gratifying to S. F. Rutter, coast dry enforcement chief, who sent them there.

But, in protection of the film industry may not these tactics be protested? Think of a leading man getting shot or half shot henceforth when he steps into a bootlegger's place of business. He might be justly mistaken for a dry officer.

Dope, the insidious curse of a free born people, keeps looming from the shadows as the most terrible of all evils this nation has to contend with in the enlightened twentieth century.

The use of narcotics should not be permitted except under the most extreme circumstances and only then by a licensed doctor whom the government shall select.

The sale of narcotics should be nationalized and every ounce accounted for in the most careful manner. And the manufacture should be prohibited except in government laboratories.

Too much dope is made for any reasonable purpose. Too much dope is used for the good of the public. Too many people engage in the nefarious traffic because of insufficient federal control. And all addicts should be segregated and cured and eternally watched.

Once again, we broach the subject of too much court and not enough correction. It is a fact, folks, we spend more money making criminals than we spend in keeping people from crime.

There is a reference in the Bible about being "your brother's keeper," but that doesn't mean keeping him in jail! There should be less "justice" and more "justness" in our worldly affairs.

About one-fifth of our populace is either in litigation or interested in litigation, civil and criminal. One out of every five spends days upon days of each year in court, either in name or in person.

A simplification of laws would help a lot. Better methods of regulation would take a great deal of taint from present impositions.

What do you think about it? And what do you say to being one who will work toward the end that this government shall be "for the people?"

NOTED ARTISTS MAKE HOME HERE

Private Exhibits Planned for Sayre Home on South Central Avenue

F. Grayson Sayre and Miss Viola Sayre are two artists Glendale has claimed recently as residents, and work of each occupies prominent places in the new Tuesday Afternoon club house. Additional work of these two artists is being displayed at a series of exhibits at the Sayre home at 914 South Central avenue.

Mr. Sayre's picture, "A Quiet Nook in the Green Verdugo Hills," is hung in the reception room of the Tuesday Afternoon club house, while Miss Sayre's portrait photograph of the late Mrs. Martha Morris, past club president, and affectionately known as the "Club Mother," occupies a place in the lounge room.

The first of the series of exhibits at the Sayre home took place last Friday night, when twenty-four finished paintings and twenty-five small sketches, done by Mr. Sayre, and a group of miniatures and portraits by Miss Sayre, were on display.

Explains Methods

Mr. Sayre's pictures are all of them typical California scenes and the sketches are ones done in the autumn in the vicinity of Palm Springs. During the exhibit Mr. Sayre explained how he made up his large pictures from the sketches, and also gave an interesting talk on composition and how and where he finds his subjects.

Miss Sayre's work has been exhibited in nearly all of the large eastern cities, as well as in California.

On Friday night Mrs. Charnikow and Miss Helen Sayre gave a group of vocal selections specially requested. Mrs. R. S. Henry assisted in receiving the guests, who were introduced to one another by a clever self-introduction game.

Those enjoying the affair were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Boland, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs William Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fortier, Mr. and Mrs. Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Henry, Mrs. Charnikow, Mrs. Louis T. Young, Mr. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sayre, Misses Clara, Helen and Viola Sayre and F. Grayson Sayre.

The next private exhibit is to be held Sunday night, April 8. A public exhibit is being arranged for a date in June.

Hawaiian Pineapple Earned Profit in 1922

HONOLULU, March 27.—The Hawaiian Pineapple company, Ltd., earned a net profit of virtually $1,500,000 during 1922, it was announced recently. The year 1922 is the banner year for the company so far. The deduction of $234,906.88 for depreciation, and $302,151.79 for income and excess profits taxes, in addition to all other expenses, leaves $1,493,637.66 as the net return on the year's operations.

On the basis of the old capitalization of the company, increased last fall, the net earnings would amount to almost 50 per cent. On the present capitalization, $6,000,000, the net return is approximately 25 per cent.

The cash dividend record of the company shows a progressive increase from a 2 per cent return in 1907, to the present 25 per cent return over a period of fifteen years.

Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church. This church was also represented by a trio, Mesdames Floyd Mercer, E. L. Smith and F. W. Pigg, who sang "O, Blest Redeemer."

The message of the day was given by Dr. Edgar Faye Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church of Los Angeles, who spoke for half an hour on "Jesus Christ, The Truth." In epigrams such as, "to be a slave to the truth is to be a free man," he laid before the audience the exhortation to follow the truth. He spoke of Jesus of Nazareth walking the earth and dying on Calvary that the human race might be free.

Dr. Frank Dyer of the Wilshire Congregational church, is to speak at noon tomorrow.

Trees in Front of Rest Home Must Go

"Woodman, spare that tree!" Such was the plaint of Attorney W. C. Anspach of 111 East Broadway, who represented Mr. and Mrs. Irving S. Moberly of 1011 South San Fernando road last night before the City Council.

Whether four trees in front of the Mission Rest Home would prevent San Fernando road from becoming a business street was the basis of the argument. Following the chopping down of one of the trees in front of this property yesterday morning, further work was restrained until an attempt could be made to save the remaining trees. It was represented that these trees are a business asset. It was asserted that Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Moberly would not object to their removal when it became necessary to widen the San Fernando road all the way into Los Angeles.

L. H. Wilson of 1034 South San Fernando road stated that he was spending $4800 on surrounding property for street lights and other improvements and that the presence of these trees injured the value of his property.

Mayor Spencer Robinson called attention to the fact that the removal of trees on San Fernando road had been agreed upon by the council only after a petition signed by 92 per cent of the property owners had requested such action. He said that he was "awfully sorry," but didn't see what else could be done.

So the council "stood pat" and today the remaining four trees are being chopped down.

Modern Indian Bones Fool Relic Hunters

JOPLIN, Mo., March 27.—Archeologists who toiled in the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen need not fear that their discoveries are to be displaced in interest and historical value by the relics removed from Ozark Cliff, near Noel, Mo., forty miles south of here.

Investigators searching for North American Indian relics found bits of bones which were decayed too much for identification. Being the time for explorations, however, a group of investigators for the Heye Museum, New York, worked feverishly in the cliff on the theory that this country was inhabitated by a prehistoric race known as the Nahua.

The relics unearthed, however, dated back only 300 or 400 years, and led to the belief that the spot was inhabited by an Indian tribe and later used as a burial ground. Specimemns of flint and bone taken from the spot are being supplied to various eastern museums.

MERCHANTS TAKE EXHIBIT SPACES

Eighty Glendale Firms to Display Their Wares At Exposition

Reservations for space in the big tent that is to be erected to shelter the Merchants' Industrial Exposition and Automobile Show, that is to be held here from May 25 to June 3, are coming in daily, according to Harry L. Leavitt, director general, who states that eighty Glendale business firms have already contracted for space in which to exhibit their merchandise. The tent will be erected ten days before the date set for the opening of the exposition, to permit the decorations and the exhibitors to have time to display the various exhibits in the most attractive manner.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce and the Glendale Credit association have sent out coupon books to their members, entitling the holders to admission to the exposition every day,, and also to ten chances on the Maxwell car that is to be given away at the close of the ten days, and Mr. Leavitt states that the response to the request that the members of these two organizations take he tickets has been most encouraging. Mr. Leavitt plans to start his billboard advertising campaign by the first of May, and to cover the country for a radius of fifty miles in every direction from Glendale with notices of the exposition.

Book Feature Acts

Additional attractions that have been booked for the exposition include Edith Sterling, the well-known motion picture actress, with her horse, Pinto, in a daily display of riding stunts. Kerno, the smallest horse in the world, will also be on exhibition, and Seelig's animal show is expected o prove one of the big features of the entire affair. The Jan Family, famous international bicycle riders and acrobats, have also been engaged for the ten days.

The contest for the honor of Queen of the Pageant is becoming closer every day, with each of the candidates straining every nerve, aided by her many friends, to take the lead and hold it, and an extra lure to hard work in this case is the gift of a diamond ring that will go to the winner.

Mr. Leavitt states that every effort is being made to stage the coming exposition on a scale that will place it among the noted events of Southern California and to bring to Glendale exhibits and amusements that will be big-time stuff in every particular.

'You can make it as plain as you can that I am joining my husband just as soon as this steaming train can get me there. When a wife says that in the face of circumstances that have arisen in my life in the past twenty-four hours, in addition to assurances by telegraph and telephone messages, it should prove just how she believes in her husband."

Before this I was much distressed at times with headaches and cold chills ran up and down my back. The doctor said I had kidney and bladder trouble and also lumbago. Doan's Kidney Pills removed these symptoms which had so annoyed me and I am indeed grateful for the permanent cure."

On October 3, 1919, Mrs. Levengood said: "My kidneys have not troubled me since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I am always glad to recommend Doan's."

WINS ADMISSION TO PRACTICE LAW

Leslie R. Tarr of Glendale Passes Examination to Bar of State

Leslie R. Tarr, of 713 South Glendale avenue, was Monday morning, March 26, admitted to practice law before all the courts of the state, at a session of the second division of the Court of Appeals, Los Angeles, Justice Nathaniel P. Conrey presiding with Associate Justices Frederick W Houser and Jesse W. Curtis on the bench, and in a week or so he will receive a certificate entitling him to practice before the federal courts.

This brings within one step of its complete fulfillment a long-cherished ambition on the part of Mr. Tarr to become a lawyer. The final step will be his receiving this June, from the U. S. C. College of Law, a diploma certifying that he has successfully completed all the requirements of that institution.

Worked For Education

After he receives his diploma in June, Mr. Tarr is planning a vacation to the Yosemite with his mother, Mrs. O. W. Tarr, of the above address, who, with her husband, is an old-time Glendalian.

Mr. Tarr's schooling in law is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that it was accomplished mainly at nights, while he worked as an average wage-earner during the daytime, reporting for a number of years on the Los Angeles Express, representing them on the Los Angeles Stock exchange the greater part of the last two years.

In the fall Mr. Tarr plans to open up law offices in Glendale where he has many friends, having grown up and gone to grammar school and high school in this city.

Accept Three Jurors In Mann Death Trial

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 27.—Three jurors had been tentatively accepted early today to hear the testimony in the trial of Dr. Lewis L. Jacobs for the murder of Miss Fritzie Mann, dancer and entertainer.

The dashing young army physician appeared pale and a trifle drawn when he was brought to the courtroom this morning from his cell in the county jail, where he has been held without bail since his indictment and arrest, two months ago. His attire was immaculate, however, and his manner composed.

Five hundred morbidly curious persons, ninety per cent of whom were women, attempted to crowd into the courtroom when the afternoon session opened. Court attaches admitted only two hundred of these, which filled the room to capacity.

Danger—you need ICE!

Have you ever wondered what makes food spoil? It is caused by bacteria—microscopic organisms which multiply by the millions in temperatures of 50 degrees or over.

When the thermometer reaches that point, your perishable foods begin to deteriorate. Any perishable food kept in a warmer temperature is actually spoiling—a fact which every text book on hygiene teaches.

There is just one way to prevent this: Keep your perishable foods in a refrigerator; and keep the refrigerator filled with ice—every day in the year. The small cost of ice will be repaid many times over by the food you will save.

TODAY—French alarmed over divorce increase—Georges Carpentier in mourning—French particular about moving picture detail—and other Paris notes by Harry R. Flory.

TOMORROW—These are quiet times in Washington, writes H. K. Reynolds, Washington correspondent.

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, March 27.—French people are beginning to be alarmed over the startling increase in the number of divorces in the country during the last 40 years, but particularly since the end of the war.

In 1885 there were only 14 divorces to every 1000 marriages in France. In 1913 there were 49 and in 1920 there were 70.

There was a lull in the divorce market during the war years, but relaxation of the war tension was followed by widespread marital difficulties.

In 1885 there were only 4123 divorces in the whole of France. In 1913 there were 15,372. During the next four war years there were only 15,371 divorces, although there was a great increase in the number of marriages.

The divorce figures for the next four years were as follows: 1918, 8121; 1919, 15,116; 1920, 29,156; 1921, 32,057.

French law forbids reporting of divorce cases, so the details of marital infidelity are never paraded before the public in the French newspapers. This fact has led many Americans to make Paris their Gretna Green, as has also the provision in French law that cruelty or desertion each is sufficient cause to justify divorce.

There is no attempt on the part of the French, however, to blame Americans for the increase in the number of French divorces.

Georges Carpentier, erstwhile light-heavyweight boxing champion of the world and idol of France, is in mourning, according to word from St. Moritz, Switzerland, where he is indulging in winter sports.

Dapper Georges, according to the reports, is wearing a large black heart on his snow-white sweater.

Asked its significance, Carpentier replied he was in deep mourning and would never smile again until he had met and defeated Battling Siki, the Senegalese negro, who deprived him of his titles.

The act is denounced by French people as too theatrical. Carpentier will never be able to win his way back to their good graces by such methods, they say.

Parisians are particular about their moving picture films. They object strenuously to small discrepancies.

Recently theatregoers looked with impatient tolerance at a picture depicting a happening of 1795. They noted immediately that the horse on which one of the principal actors continually rode was branded in large letters "U. S. A.," proving that the horse in question had belonged to the American army during the war.

"Soon we shall have Louis the Fifteenth turning on electric lights in the Versailles Palace of Napoleon directing the battle of Waterloo from an airplane," commented one newspaper in derision.

The average French coal miner receives a wage which is only two-thirds that required to supply the average French family of four persons with just the bare essentials of life, according to figures made public by H. Delfosse, secretary of the Miners' Federation.

As a result 30,000 miners in the Saar Valley are now out on a strike for wages which will bring them 3000 francs a year instead of the 2000 they now receive.

Computed at the present rate of exchange a coal miner's salary in France is approximately $130 a year.

Georges Clemenceau, the French "Tiger," since his return from his American tour, has been working day after day on his reminiscences.

Every morning the aged statesman sits alone in his home meditating and jotting down notes.

From noon until 7 o'clock every day he works with a secretary, putting his reminiscences in writing.

The memoirs are not expected to appear for some time. Friends of the "Tiger" point out that he is not interested in the money he may be able to accumulate through their sale, but only in making absolutely clear his position in all governmental affairs, dating back as far as 1870.

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

"The Ninety and Nine," a David Smith production of magnitude, released by Vitagraph, shows for the last times today at the Glendale Theatre.

The original of this film story played for many years on the speaking stage, and was considered one of the great melodramatic thrillers of the day. As a screen vehicle this reputation has been outdone, and after seeing "The Ninety and Nine" you will consider that you have witnessed the ultimate in thrill drama.

Its most spectacular scenes are when a locomotive with the hero at the throttle dashes through a flaming forest, on a desperate rescue mission.

The T. D. & L.

"Adam's Rib," the Cecil B. De Mille Paramount special, now showing at the T. D. & L. Theatre, is said to contain in its huge prehistoric forest set the largest interior ever put up before the camera, and that enough lumber, plaster and other materials were used in its construction to build an apartment house or bungalow court.

A view of the picture bears out the assertion. It is the most gorgeous set ever esen—and in and out of the sequences romp such a galaxy of stars as Milton Sills, Anna Q. Nilsson, Theodore Kosloff, Elliott Dexter and Pauline Garon.

The theme of the spectacle is that woman after all does not change very much through the ages.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S SLIPPER

One day it was very cold in Woodland where Uncle Wiggily lived with his animal boy and girl friends. Oh, it was very cold!

"This doesn't feel much like spring," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she huddled near the fire. "I think it froze ice last night."

"I know it nearly froze my pink, twinkling nose," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

And then, while it was still very cold, it began to snow and it covered the ice with a coating of white flakes.

"I am afraid Spring will catch cold when she comes tomorrow," said Nurse Jane.

"What do you mean?" asked the bunny rabbit gentleman.

"Why, you know," went on his muskrat lady housekeeper, "tomorrow is March the twenty-first. That's spring, and the little birds are supposed to begin to sing."

"They won't have very much to sing about if it keeps as cold as this," said Uncle Wiggily. "However, there is no use sitting about my hollow stump bungalow all day. I'll go out and perhaps I may meet with an adventure."

"Oh, you're not going out in all the cold and snow, are you?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Yes," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I am. I'll hop fast and keep warm that way."

So out of his warm hollow stump bungalow he hopped and he had not gone very far before he saw Johnnie Bushytail, one of the boy squirrels scampering along.

"Hello Johnnie, where are you going?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Susie Littletail has lost her slipper and I am going to help her look for it," chattered Johnnie, and on he scampered faster than before.

"That's queer," thought Uncle Wiggily. "They must have been playing the game of hunt the slipper at Susie's house, and some one hid the slipper where they can't find it. Well, I'll hop along and help Susie look for her slipper."

Uncle Wiggily had not gone much farther before he met Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy.

"Where are you going, Jackie?" asked the bunny rabbit.

"Oh, Susie Littletail has lost her slipper and I am going to help hunt for it," answered Jackie, and on he ran faster than before.

"My goodness!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Every one seems going to help Susie hunt for her lost slipper. I'd better hurry or I'll be too late!"

So on he hopped, but he had not gone much farther before, all of a sudden, he saw Toodle Flat Tail, one of the beaver boys.

"Hello, Toodle, where are you going?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh," answered Toodle as he gnawed a bit of sweet bark from the aspen tree, "Susie Littletail has——"

"That's enough! I know the rest!" interrupted Uncle Wiggily. "Don't tell me any more. Susie has lost her slipper and you are going to help look for it; aren't you?"

"Yes," answered Toodle. "But how did you know?"

"Oh, a little fairy told me!" laughed the bunny. "But run along and I'll hop with you and help search for Susie's lost slipper." So along went Uncle Wiggily and Toodle and soon, out in front of Susie's house, the bunny gentleman saw a number of boy and girl animals moving about as if looking for something. "Why, did Susie lose her slipper out of doors?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Of course," answered Toodle. "Where did you suppose she lost it? Surely her slipper is somewhere out here, but she lost it and can't find it."

"Well, this is very strange," said Uncle Wiggily. "I never——" under the snow and down he fell, ker-bunko.

Down he fell ker-bunko!

"Ho! Ho!" cried Susie as she saw Uncle Wiggily fall. "He has found my lost slipper."

"Found your lost slipper; what do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he picked himself up.

"Why, I made a slipper—that means a slippery sliding place on the ice," explained Susie. "Then the snow came and covered up my slipper as I call it and I couldn't find it again. The other animal boys came to help me hunt for my slipper, but you were the first to find it, Uncle Wiggily. Oh, how glad I am you found my slipper!"

"Oh," murmured the bunny as he limped away. "So a slide on the ice is a slipper; is it? Yes, I guess it is!" But he was happy when he saw the children sliding on Susie's slipper, and didn't mind his fall. And if the milk bottle doesn't try to crawl in through the key hole to get in away from the cold, next I'll tell about Uncle Wiggily welcoming spring.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

By LIEUT JOHN R. IRWIN
U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

VACUUM TUBES IN TRANSMISSION

In the earlier use of vacuum tubes it would seem an advantage to have ionization by collision because a larger plate current can be obtained, but there are two difficulties which have proved so great that tubes are now usually made to have only a pure election flow. One of these difficulties is a rapid deterioration of the filament when a large plate current flows. The positively charged parts of the atoms are driven violently against the negatively charged filament and since they are much more massive than electrons this bombardment, so to speak, actually seems to wear away the face of the filament. Another disadvantage of tubes of poor vacuum is that too large a battery voltage may cause a blue glow discharge. This action applies more particularly to the efficiency of the "three element tube," described in the following installment.

The tube we have had under discussion was first used in radio practice and after its inventor is called the "Fleming valve." The Fleming valve was originally used as a detector, but has been replaced by the three element tube because the latter has proved so much more sensitive, and as previously described can be utilized for a variety of purposes.

However, before proceeding to the modern vacuum tube it is well to consider that types of two electrode tubes are most useful in another field of electrical work. One type, known as the "Kenetron," developed by the General Electric Company has a higher vacuum than the Fleming valve and is made in larger dimensions. It is used as rectifier of currents of high voltage but low frequency. It changes alternating current into a pulsating current all in one direction. Small currents, well below one ampere, are rectified by these tubes, and power up to several kilowatts can be handled even if the applied voltage exceeds 25,000. Another type, known as the "Tungar rectifier," is utilized for charging storage batteries from a 110 volt alternating circuit. This type contains rarefied argon gas produced mainly through ionization by collision in the manner before described.

VACUUM TUBE SOCKET

The new, low, filament voltage type WD-11 vacuum tubes will not fit the former standard American socket. The use of an adapter is inconvenient and expensive. Our new type 282 socket is designed expressly for the WD-11 tube.

This new socket is of molded bakelite and is equipped with positive contact phosphor bronze springs.

Soviets Plan to Name Successor to Lenine

COPENHAGEN, March 27. — Hope has been abandoned that Nicolai Lenine can ever return to active political life, said a Moscow despatch in the newspaper Politiken today. Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

The Difference

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

It was the habit of Pug Slocum, heavyweight, to retire to the country for conditioning. While his manager was dickering with promoters and supplying the sport writers of the country with fulsome publicity, Pug hunted and fished and exercised in the open. It was good to get away from the ring and ring talk, to meet people who neither idolized nor scorned.

At Minnow Creek, summer resort, Pug was known as Sylvester Slocum and admired for his stalwart frame and constant good nature. He helped women out of boats, pulled the craft up on the sand and was ready at all times to do the heavy work. In the friendly circle of the summer resort he was accepted as a leader.

When a week was over Pug decided that so long as Nita Martin remained at Minnow Creek he did not care how long a time passed between fights. He became Nita's escort and companion, a necessary figure in a summer flirtation, and the envy of all the other men in the place.

Then came the telegram from Curly, his manager. He would have to go back now and start training in earnest.

'It's business," he told the girl. "A man can't spend all his time at a summer camp, no matter how attractive he finds it." For a moment he resitated. He would like to tell this girl that he was a prize fighter, a square one, and would like to explain to her how he felt about the game.

"And what is your business?"

"It's a hard one," he evaded, 'one that calls for nerve, muscle and a cool head, a fight all the way through." He watched her keenly to see how she was taking it.

"Mercy," the girl laughed, "sounds like you were a pugilist or something equally terrible."

"Well," said Pug, "business and prize fighting are a whole lot alike." He left without daring to tell his secret.

Thousands of men surrounded the ring in the smoke-filled auditorium when Pug stalled out of his corner to do the work which brought him his livelihood. He stepped confidently with glove outstretched to shake that of his opponent. Then he was the alert fighter, side-stepping, backing and darting in, ever looking for the opportunity to send his glove past those others before him to make a red spot on a glistening white body. When he was struck Pug grinned, and when his glove found its mark his heart sang. Thess long, flat muscles which responded so quickly, the eyes which could judge distance so accurately, and his ability to anticipate the intent of the other—they were given him for a purpose. Pug was happy when he fought.

"It's my job," he said to himself, "and I'll stick to it until I take the count."

After seven rounds Pug knew at last he had met an adversary worthy of his powers. This man did not tire as the rest. There was no weakening to his blows, and he was not frightened at meeting the champion. Well, some day a young fellow would win the belt. Maybe this was the day. Pug slipped in a blow to the other's chin and smiled as the man stepped back and broke its force.

In the corner of the ring, where some water had splashed from the pail. Pug's opponent slipped, reeled slightly and lost the perfect balance the fighter needs. Friends of the champion roared. It was the moment for a smashing blow to end the fight.

"Knock him out," the hundreds shouted. Pug stepped back while the other moved to safety. Then the battle went on.

In the tenth round the champion gave all he possessed and knew once more he was the better man. When the referee was through counting, he helped his foe to his feet, shook him by the hand and turned to his corner. The crowd cheered wildly.

"Allow me to congratulate you." A stout, red-faced man, evidently of importance, had climbed over the ropes. "I never saw a better exhibition of pugilism or sportsmanship. I am proud to know you!"

Pug's chest swelled. It was a good game, and this man knew it.

'I am Conrad C. Martin, the molasses man," he said, and, motioning to a younger man who had followed him, "this is my friend, Arthur Wisner."

"Conrad Martin," the pugilist repeated. This was Nita's father whose hand he was shaking and whose words of praise he was hearing. Perhaps it was just possible. . . . Conrad Martin, and how is your daughter, Miss Nita?"

It was a blundering question, born of excitement and confusion. The red-faced man became redder, withdrew his hand and stiffened, while the younger one turned away.

"Do you mean to say," the father put it angrily, "you know my daughter?" Indignantly he turned and walked away.

"Must be," a wistful boy who was also heavyweight champion said to himself as he looked over the heads of admirers at the retreating two. "There is a difference between men who fight and those who watch and cheer. Wonder if that young fellow is going to marry Miss Nita." He smiled, thrust out his jaw, and threw back his head. "I could lick him with one hand behind my back."

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

FORM LETTERS

My dear Followers:

The following rules of the column will have to be followed in asking for discussions and for material which we offer. Otherwise your letters cannot be given attention.

First: When you ask for material which we have offered, you must enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.). The address must include your full name, city or town, state and street number. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must also include four cents in loose stamps. Do not send money—it is too easily lost in the mails.

Second: Write legibly with pen or typewriter and not more than 200 words. If your handwriting is not clear get someone to write for you.

Third: When you ask for material to be sent, have your s. a. s. e. at least a full sized envelope. It is very difficult to stuff a whole pamphlet into a baby envelope.

Fourth: Address your letters to me in care of your paper. They will be forwarded to me at my office in New York City.

Fifth: Please sign your name as evidence of good faith. We promise that we shall not use it in any way.

Sixth: Do not ask for material to be sent you unless it is something we have offered to send inquirers. You may, however, ask me to write on any subject of general interest which I have not covered, and I will be glad to do so as soon as possible.

Seventh: Do not ask for diagnoses or for individual treatment. I could not safely give you these even if I had the time. This is the province of your personal physician.

Eighth: Allow at least three weeks to elapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is ignored. And allow very much longer than that for an answer to appear in the column, if it can appear there.

Ninth: Watch my answers to correspondents and articles each day for something similar to the question you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see that, whether your initials are appended or not. Many people ask the same question and I must answer them altogether to save time and space.

Unless all of the first seven rules are complied with your letter cannot receive any attention. I dislike to have to put all of these restrictions on you, but, unless you follow them, it is going to be impossible for us to handle our mail.

If you will remember that my "Diet and Health" is a syndicated feature, appearing all over the United States and Canada and in every section of the country creating great interest, you will realize the extent of my mail. I want to be able to read all of your letters. They are an inspiration and a help to me, but I shall not be able to do it unless you follow these rules because of the tremendous number of them.

You may never see your answer under your own initials for in the column I can answer very few and I try to choose these letters by the answering of which I can help the largest number. Probably 90 per cent of our letters have to do with the question of reducing so, naturally, the subject being of the greatest interest—and, incidentally, of the greatest general importance—there will be a great deal on that subject always.

You will find I have to repeat my advice very often. But it is by repetitions that we learn, so that is desirable. I shall prepare many of my articles so that you can get them again by sending the s. a. s. e. and following the other directions. But unless I have written on a subject and have offered to send it to you, it will not be available for distribution.

Please remember that I cannot take the place of your family physician, I cannot make diagnoses for you, nor treat you personally, nor write individual diets. I appreciate very much the wonderful confidence you are showing in me, but, if you think for a moment, you can realize that diagnoses and personal treatment would be impossible. I can only take up in the column questions that will be of general interest to all my readers.

I feel like adding a tenth rule. It is this: Save some of your 200 words to continue telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much help you are getting from it. For that is an inspiration to me and, of course, makes my work happier.

I shall probably have to run this article just as it is once a month at least to keep the newcomers in column order and probably to remind you, too, though I hope you will help me and hasten my reply to you by remembering to observe our rules.

Beauty Chats

by Edna Kent Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS

Martha:—Freckles are the result of iron in the blood which the sunshine brings out on the skin. You can bleach these off occasionally, but they will always return. There is always a risk when dyeing the hair that you will ruin it, and unless you can improve the shade by using either sage tea or henna, it is best to leave it as it is. It is a very rare instance when red hair is not an added attraction, and if you will choose the right colors in dressing you can make even the bright red hair an asset. Black velvet, cream color and all shades of green and brown will be the best choice for you.

Peggy:—A red nose usually comes from a restriction in the circulation. You may not be conscious of this, as it is often due to a congestion somewhere in the system. It may be from catarrh, adenoids, an impacted colon or pressure from tight skirt bands, tight shoes, or from glasses that interfere with circulation over the nose. Neither powders nor creams will help this; you will have to improve whatever condition is causing this trouble.

Miss B:—The red marks left from pimples will usually disappear of themselves if your blood is in good condition. A simple bleach like peroxide would help, but the best thing is to keep the system in good order and the skin will throw off all these blemishes without any other aid.

Anxious B.:—Since your extra weight is nowhere except around your hips dieting would not be what you need. Try special exercises that are concentrated on the hips, abdomen and thighs. Massage would also be another form of exercise which is very effective in reducing portions of the body.

Mrs. G. M.:—If your hair tonic contains as much as forty-five per cent of alcohol it will dry out your hair if used often. That amount of alcohol might be very helpful at a time when the scalp was in need of a great deal of stimulation; for instance, when the hair sometimes falls out following a very hot summer. But three applications would be the test of its helpfulness. Whenever alcohol is a part of the formula there should be some oil also.

Since your hair is deteriorating under this present treatment, why not try another hair tonic? There is no reason why you should ever put any tonic on the hair itself, it is the scalp only that should be toned, so you see that this soaking of the hair would be overdoing the treatments, even if the tonic was what you needed. When using a tonic for the scalp merely moisten the tips of the fingers and then massage the scalp vigorously with them while the pores take up most of the tonic.

Thelma M.:—Applications of spirits of camphor will dry up fever blisters. They are caused from poisons in the system resulting from a cold.

Miss Alice J.:—When using witch hazel to overcome oiliness of the skin, it should only be applied at times when there is excessive secretion and then merely moisten a piece of cotton and wipe the oil from the skin.

Tomorrow—Professionally Cared for Nails

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

WOULD HE MURDER HER?

"If I had married that woman I think I should have either murdered her or committed suicide before this."

I heard a man say that the other day about a woman to whom a friend of his is married, a woman who, though charming in many ways, and a very competent housekeeper, seems to have a peculiar irresponsibility in the matter of money.

Of course, he is exaggerating. But, aside from that, I think he is wrong.

He wouldn't feel the way he thinks he would toward that woman because she wouldn't be the same woman she is if she had been married to him ten years instead of the man she did marry.

He'd Be Another Man

And he wouldn't be the same man.

The effect of marriage as a character moulder is something we don't fully recognize.

"A person's character," some one has said, "is only half formed until after wedlock."

And the person whom you pick out to live with is going to be one of the determining factors which shall decide what that other half shall be.

The woman under discussion was a woman whose husband never held her to any accountability in the matter of money and never helped her to form sensible habits about spending. The man who says he could not have stood her would have expected different things from her. And I think he would have gotten them.

We form those we marry and are formed by them in many ways. By what we expect from them; by the antagonism we arouse in them; by our ambitions and our desires and our ideals.

He Made Her Conservative

I know a woman who says she would naturally have been happy-go-lucky, but who declares she has been forced to become conservative and forward-looking by the fact that her husband is so exceedingly easy-going and optimistic. (You know the definition of a pessimist—"someone who has to live with an optimist.")

And I know a man who has been so exasperated by his wife's stinginess and meanness that he goes to the opposite extreme in his fear of being like her.

And then I know a woman who has risen far above herself in both intellect and character because she chose a man of high ideals, who both gave and expected much.

Choosing Your Character

In choosing a wife or husband you are unwittingly determining not only your material destiny, but your character destiny.

Of course, the stronger character will have the greater influence on the weaker, but even the weak will have its influence in the course of time.

Konce wrote of the experiments the Great Chemist might make if He chose to put the same initial character behind a plain and a pretty face, or in a setting of poverty and of riches, and then watch what would happen. It is equally interesting to speculate how differently the same woman would develop if she remained single or if she married any one of two or three men. And, likewise, with the other sex. Pure speculation, of course, but rather an interesting train of thought, don't you think?

DUSSELDORF, March 27.—French military authorities have confiscated 145 German railway cars from a Dusseldorf factory.

Will Pasture Bees On Covina Blossoms

Covina's population has been increased by about 24,000,000!

Yes, that's right—24,000,000. However, they are not members of the human family but are apidae and belong to the family of hymenoptera. Anyhow, that's what Noah Webster says about them.

Frank R. Buchanan of 242 North Orange street, apiculturist, has moved 400 of his bee hives by auto truck from the vicinity of Universal City to the orange blossoms of Covina and about 200 hives from the sage of the Castiac river to the Willows about Saugus.

According to Mr. Buchanan, each of the apartment houses is somewhat more crowded than any so far leased by man for it contains between 60,000 and 95,000 "stingers."

Traffic Policeman Is Shot by Two Bandits

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 27.—A traffic policeman whose name could not be ascertained, was shot and probably fatally wounded this afternoon by two bandits who just had robbed a messenger of the Missouri Dairy company, of a $12,000 payroll.

The bandits saw the officer walking towards them half a block from the scene of the robbery and opened fire. The policeman knew nothing of the robbery and was on his way to lunch.

Central Pacific Asks Leave to Build Cutoff

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Authority to construct 118 miles of railroad from Oak Ridge, to Kirk, Oregon, was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Central Pacific railroad.

The proposed construction is known as the "Natron cut off" and the Southern Pacific, when it acquired control of the Central Pacific lines, agreed to construct this line if permitted to acquire the Central Pacific.

The application stated that a large part of Eastern and Southern Oregon, rich in timber and agricultural resources, will secure direct railroad connections to the Willamette valley and Portland.

For "Inexperienced":—Tomorrow I shall publish a number of recipes for serving cabbage, as you requested. Cole Slaw will be among them.

For "Mrs. C.":—You need not go to great expense to give your child an Easter party. Never mind bought favors. Make your own as follows: Buy a pound of animal crackers and cover one side of each cracker with white and chocolate cake frosting. Now frost the top of about a dozen of those small, unsweetened crackers called oysterettes, and, before the frosting hardens, quickly stand the frosted crackers upon the oysterettes—one animal on each oysterette. (If you wish to use uncooked frosting, you must heat your crackers a few moments in the oven before putting it on.) These little favors might be stood around a plant, in the middle of your refreshments table—or stood around a fluffy chicken or a bunny—as a centerpiece. Serve iced cocoa, simple cup-cakes and ice cream. The children will want to carry home some of the frosted animals as favors.

Of course you must have an Easter Egg Hunt as one of the games. But, for economy's sake, the eggs need not be real ones; they may be pieces of paper in the shape of an egg, each piece colored with crayons. Hide these paper eggs all around your living room and, at a signal, start the children hunting for them. After five minutes, halt them. The child who has found the most eggs wins a chocolate egg as a prize.

Pinning the Ear on the Rabbit is another good game. It is played just like the old "donkey tail" game. Draw the picture of a tailless rabbit on a large sheet of wrapping paper; hang this sheet up on the wall and give each child a paper tail with a pin in it. Blindfold them in turn and push them toward the rabbit picture. He or she who pins a tail in the right place wins a copy of "Peter Rabbit" or some other child's book about this animal.

Chase the Bunny will make fun, too. All except one child kneel on the floor with hands on each other's shoulders. The one outside the ring drops a carrot behind some kneeling child. That child must spring up, pick up the carrot and run to the left, while the Bunny (the one who dropped the carrot) runs to the right, around the circle. They pass and each tries to get to the vacant "hole" first. If the Bunny fails to, he must be Bunny again—otherwise the other child is Bunny and must now drop the carrot behind some one.

Tomorrow—Some Good Cabbage Recipes

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation heads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krumbled form, becomes an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with each meal)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-racking and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly. Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

LOTS OF TALENT ON BRAVES TEAM

Last Year's Cellar Champs Have Fast Bunch of Kid Athletes

By NICK FLATLEY
For International News Service

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27.—Manager Fred Mitchell, whose sadly wounded Braves staggered into the cellar early last spring and stuck there all through the season, is one of baseball's optimists these days of 1923 spring training. He has no pennant claiming baseball club, but he has what all managers want and seldom get, to wit, four or five kids who just can't miss being big leaguers before much more of their careers unfurl.

Ford, one of the best infielders in the league, reported this spring down to playing weight. Boeckel is hustling with a couple of kids we have mentioned as being on the trail for his job. Harry Kopf on hand but not at all sure of his job because of the same youthful competition.

Outfield Is Fast

Southworth, Powell, Cruise and Nixon make up a fast, capable outfield. They also are doing plenty of spring hustling.

Fillingim, Oeschger, Marquard, Watson, Miller and Lansing are tried pitchers, who have rounded easily into their best early season form. There are at least three of the youngsters who will cling for half the season anyhow—namely, Tim McNamara, Fordham university product; Johnny Cooney, who has a number of seasons to his credit in the big leagues, and a semi-pro named Brown.

WILLIE KAMM IS BIG LEAGUE HIT

Outshines His Old Mate, Jimmie O'Connell, in Early Series

NEW YORK, March 27.—It is not necessary to read between the lines of reports sent on from points south to know that Willie Kamm, that luxurious bit of baseball finery, has crashed right over with Kid Gleason, the Chicago White Sox and all baseball men who have watched him step.

The exclaiming experts have gone into typographical rhapsodies over the manner of William's finesse, both at the plate and around third base in the Giant-White Sox series to date.

They have been somewhat more reticent about acclaiming Jimmie O'Connell, the other human dollar mark of the series. In fact, it remains a matter of allegation that O'Connell represents $75,000 worth of ball players.

That Kamm, playing third base for the Sox, has outshone O'Connell, in center field, for the Giants, is no secret.

This, we are informed, will not cause the lifting of the incredulous eyebrow in San Francisco, where the players in question were team mates last year. There, Kamm is regarded as the greatest ball player turned out by the coast league in ten years, and O'Connell merely a hitter.

Fails to Hit 'Em

Brother James, however, has not condescended to do even that since his advent at San Antonio. There has been plenty of care-free hitting in the Giant-Sox games, but James has been singularly guiltless of any part in the plot.

That, of course, is by no means conclusive. Neither is the fact that he seems to be an awkward outfielder with a marked weakness for balls hit over his head.

The former is probably a case of suspended animation while it is almost a baseball axiom that any man of natural ability can be taught to judge fly balls.

Whether his failure to get away running will hurt O'Connell's confidence remains to be seen.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Brooklyn. — Mick Foley, Brooklyn, got decision over Sammy Seager, New York, twelve rounds.

At Buffalo.—Charley O'Connell, Cleveland, defeated Teddy Meyers, Buffalo, 12 rounds; Benny Kalgar, New York, beat Harry Cook, Chicago, twelve rounds; Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, beat Al Cross, Syracuse, six rounds.

At Boston.—Floyd Johnson, California heavyweight, knocked out Ray Thompson of New York in the first round.

At Detroit.—The referee stopped the scheduled ten-round bout between Gene Larue and Johnny Buff in the eighth round "because Larue was not trying his best." The decision was unpopular, Larue taking a beating all the way.

At Hot Springs, Ark.—Johnny Lisse won on a foul from Eddie Ketchell in the second round.

At Peoria, Ill.—Tom Gibbons knocked out Andy Schmader in the first round; Stanley Darcy knocked out Bill Dalton in the third round; Battling Strayer and Jack Barnhart fought six rounds to a draw.

JESS WILLARD IS READY FOR BOUT

Ex-Champ Shows Effects of Training Grind at Excelsior Springs

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE
For International News Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 27.—Jess Willard may not defeat Floyd Johnson in Madison Square Garden on the night of May 12, but if he does not it will be for some other reason than lack of condition, if the big fellow keeps training the way he is now. His camp in Excelsior Springs, Mo., an hour's ride from Kansas City, has been visited by fight critics and fans frequently in the two weeks he has been there and every one of them has remarked on the splendid condition of the big fellow.

In his training camp in Toledo in the summer of 1919 it was said that Willard was not doing road work because he was so heavy that road work would break down his arches. It is true that Jess is many pounds lighter now than when he began work for the Dempsey brawl on Maumee bay, but he is still sufficiently big to break down any arches ever built in a human foot, but each morning he is tramping and running from eight to ten miles over the hills and roads surrounding Excelsior Springs and no complaints have been heard to date.

Legs Are Steady

The result of the work is showing plainly on Jess. His face is beginning to show indications of condition. The heavy jowls that were apparent when he began his work have almost disappeared and there is a healthy color to his face and a clean glint in his eye that has not been there since his battle with Jack Johnson for the heavyweight title. But it is in the legs that Willard has shown the most remarkable improvement. A little more than two weeks ago Jess completed a theatrical tour in Kansas City and immediately went to Excelsior Springs to begin his training. He started to work at once and it was noticeable the first few days that a few minutes of shadow boxing would cause the huge pins of the former champion to quiver and "buckle." This was the sign, according to the experts, that Jess would never again bring himself to condition for a hard fight. Yesterday Willard went through a strenuous drill in the afternoon, consisting of punching the bag, shadow boxing and boxing that consumed a full hour and at its conclusion he was as steady on his legs as a fellow of half his age.

For the first time in Jess' career, he is taking the boxing game seriously.

SEATTLE SHAPES UP LIKE WINNER

Wolverton Predicts Good Season for Club in Season's Games

By HARRY WOLVERTON
Manager Seattle Baseball Club
Written for International News

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 27.—The prospect is very bright for the Seattle club this season. I have been given complete control of the team by its new management and I am more than satisfied with the way the squad is shaping up in spring practice.

The Seattle club is strong this year in pitchers and catchers and our outfield rates as one of the best, if not the best, in the league. It stacks up strong both in hitting and fielding nad has speed on the bases.

While the infield is not picked yet we have a wealth of material from which to select a winning combination. Doc. Johnson and Janvrin are both rounding to in great form. Young Baldwin is going fine. Then we have Sam Crane, Jack Marvin, Billy Orr, Davis and Young Ramage who came from the Imperial valley.

Show Team Work

In addition we have Markle, who was captain of the Penn State team last year, and sold to San Antonio, but who was turned back when the deal fell through.

The boys are all working together. They are trying the hardest they know how and that counts for a lot in winning baseball games.

The new owners of the Seattle team are smart baseball men. They have assured me not only a free hand but all of the backing of their experience and ability in making the team a success.

Smoker Mixes Bull and Bullets; Pipe Explodes

RICE LAKE, Wis., March 27.—You can't mix Bull with bullets and expect a nice, cool, quiet smoke.

Charles Mercier, Jr., of this city will attest to this.

Mercier carried his Bull Durham loose in a pocket in which he had ammunition for a .22 calibre rifle. He dipped out a handful of Bull and bullets and packed it in his pipe.

A bullet tore through his coat and convinced him there is nothing in this smokeless powder talk.

WOOD COWAN

James J. Jeffries, the former heavyweight champion and one of the greatest thumpers that ever lived, is in the spotlight again but in a rather unfortunate way.

Although Jeffries in his career won nearly a quarter of a million, he is today a bankrupt—not because he squandered his money, but because of bad investments.

Jeffries in his prime possessed all the requirements of a great fighter—a magnificent physique, a strong heart, a jaw of steel, a terrific punch and the fighting instinct. All these were an inheritance from the pioneer stock from which he sprung. His family was from Virginia, where 200 years ago his forefathers settled on a great plantation on part of which is now Culpepper Courthouse. His greatgrandfather was one of the earliest settlers in Ohio and a famous Indian fighter.

It was here that James was born in the little town of Carroll, in 1875. Five years later the family moved to California.

His Virginia and Ohio ancestors were tremendous men, and Jeffries at 24 was 6 ft. 2 ins. tall, weighed 220 pounds, and was yet to meet a man who could match his strength.

Jeffries began his ring career in 1896. He was a sparring partner for Corbett at Carson City. Bill Delaney took him in hand and headed him for Fitzsimmons and the heavyweight championship. A little over two years later he defeated old Fitz at Coney Island.

During his reign as champion he whipped Jim Corbett twice, Tom Sharkey, Jack Munroe, Hank Griffin, Joe Kennedy and Gus Ruhlin. In 1904 he retired because of lack of opponents. After six years he came out of retirement and was defeated, for the only time in all his ring career, by Jack Johnson in 15 rounds fought at Reno, Nevada in 1910.

For that fight Jeffries received a total of $117,066, the largest purse on record up until that date. He received the greater part of $36,500 when he fought Sharkey, also the big end of $43,500 when he defeated Corbett at San Francisco, $22,500 in his second fight with Fitzsimmons, $20,000 when he met Ruhlin, $15,000 for his defeat of Munroe, and many smaller purses.

Jeffries was the first fighter to use the crouch. This he developed as a defense against Fitzsimmons' body blows. The fact that he defeated that grand old fighter shows how successful it proved to be. Jim was a man of great endurance, tremendous strength, fast for his great size, cool when in action, and possessed a terrific punch.

The Jeffries that faced Johnson was not the Jeffries that defeated Fitzsimmons. After six years of idleness, and past 30, they don't come back. The zip that youth gives had left Jeff. His mind was sullen and the "will to win" had slipped away with the passing years.

Jeffries was a great fighter and a credit to the game. Every fight fan in the land sincerely hoped that his troubles now prove only temporary.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

That the fathers thought enough of Battling Nelson's ability as a fighter and a square shooter to speak of him to their children was recently demonstrated when the Battler was invited to address a crowd of youngsters in a San Francisco Y. M. C. A. The text of Nelson's talk was "Always play fair" and that the boys had heard considerable of the one time prowess of the former lightweight champion was shown by the eager manner in which they hung on his words and the intense interest they showed in the fighter himself. Hardly any of the boys present were old enough to know of Nelson when he was in his fighting prime so their knowledge of him must have come to them through their elders.

A San Francisco sports page makes the announcement that there is a motion on foot to bring the national I. C. A. A. A. A. to the Pacific Coast instead of running them this year at either Cambridge or Pennsylvania, which two places have had the lion's share of those meets during the fifty years since their inception. It states that because of the University of California winning the event for two successive years, it is felt that the coast is due to hold the meet. Just where this information comes from is not known, but the chances are that its a 100 to one shot that the meet will be held again just where it has in the past—the East. While there is no question that the event could be held on the Pacific Coast with just as much chance of success, the fact that the majority of the schools competing have their habitat East would be the first argument up against a move of this kind. It is likely to be many a day before the I. C. A. A. A. A. will be seen in action away from the Atlantic border.

Men in all walks of life attended the funeral recently of Jack Gleason, the San Francisco sporting man who died in New York and whose body was returned to his home town. Superior judges, city and county officials, business men and sportsmen were on the list of honorary pall bearers. Little had been seen of Gleason since he helped to put on the Jeffries-Johnson battle at Reno, but he always kept in touch with the friends and acquaintances he left behind as it was one of his mottoes that once a man worth having was worth keeping as a friend. As an absent member of the Olympic club Gleason never forgot to send a telegram to the membership every Christmas and New Year, or on any special occasions when the membership met. In this way he kept his hold on his old time friends and saw to it that he was not forgotten. The result of this policy was evident at his funeral which was largely attended. Gleason had a way of putting the individual personal note into each of his messages.

SPORTS CHATTER

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

On the Pacific coast credit has been given to "Bud" Houser of Oxnard high school, as being the world record holder in the sixteen pound shot put with a heave of 45 ft. 9 3-8 in. This mark was made May 6 of last year at Fresno in the annual championship meet of the California Interscholastic Federation. The figure actually broke the mark of 45 ft. 5 1-4 in. made by the late Ralph Rose when he was at Healdsburgh high school in 1905.

Houser was rightly credited with breaking Rose's record for the season that the put of 46 ft. 1-2 in. made by Ralph G. Hills in April, 1921, had inadvertently been passed over at the 1921 meeting of the A. A. U. and it was not until November, 1922, that Hills' record was recognized. This means that Houser, while he exceeded Ralph Rose's record, never actually, and does not now, broke the world mark.

Hills, at the time, was a senior at Hill high school at Pottstown, Pa. Today he is a student at Princeton university in his sophomore year. The former high school lad and now Princetonian, is credtied by George Krogness, a well known A. A. U. official, as being the finest shot putter at present performing. "He does not look like a shot putter to look at him," says Krogness, "but when he gets into the circle and starts to work, his every action stamps him as a polished performer. I doubt if there is a shot putter today with the form and the drive that Hills has got. I expect he will do great things after another year in college."

Houser, by his victory last year, took possession of the Frank C. Drew shot put trophy. This trophy was donated by Drew in 1913 for competition among high school shot putters specifically for the sixteen pound event. The conditions were that it was to go to the boy breaking Rose's world record. Houser broke the record, but Hills broke it, ahead of him. The condition attached to the trophy was that it was to go to the boy breaking the record in the annual California interscholastic meet, but that competition in this one special event was to be open to any high school boy from any part of the country. Under these conditions Houser is evidently entitled to the trophy.

Drew has now put up another trophy and will be competed for the first time this year. The trophy, however, will be engraved with Ralph G. Hills' name, his school affiliation and his heave of 46 ft. 1-2 in. The same conditions will prevail for the trophy and any boy from any part of the country is eligible to enter and come to California to compete if he so desires, but he must satisfy the directors of the California Interscholastic Federation that his scholastic standing is on an equality with that set down with the California standing.

Both Houser and Hills are now out of scholastic competition and there does not seem to be any high school boy at present capable of breaking Hills' mark. It will be broken some day, but when is the question. It took sixteen years to develop a boy to break Rose's mark. How long will it take to develop a boy to break Hills' record?

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 27. — In line with the customary inability of college football stars to get by on major league ball fields, it may have been noted that Glenn Killinger is to summer with the Atlanta Crackers, while Hinkey Haines, a more or less illustrious team mate of the great Killy at Penn State, is arousing no salvos of acclaim on the occasion of his third trial with the Yankees.

The question of why the leading figures of football should show comparatively slight aptitude for the diamond, even when giving it their complete interest and attention, can be answered simultaneously with this one: Why is water so wet? Briefly, the reason in both cases is identical—there is none.

Yet many of them have shown enough in college baseball to be deemed worthy of a trial in the majors. The most famous illustration is that of Jim Thorpe, said by many to have been the greatest football player of them all. James stuck on for years with the Giants, Braves and Reds because he showed unusual ability in all respects, with the exception of a marked ineptitude against curve-ball pitching. In other words, he was just a minor leaguer when all was said and done.

Another case is that of Johnny Mohardt, a great halfback at Notre Dame, who received a brief trial with the Detroit Tigers last spring. A third is that of Howard Berry, All-American back at Pennsylvania, whom McGraw turned loose without seeming regret.

One Vick, who was Camp's All-American centre at Michigan in 1921, was supposed to catch on with St. Louis last spring, but didn't. The Cards now have McCurdy, of Illinois, in their camp, at Mobile. He may or may not do.

Offhand, of course, there may be notable exceptions we have happened to overlook. For one thing, Matty was quite a backfield man at Bucknell, in the late nineties, and Frank Frisch was another, at Fordham, but so far as actual reputation was concerned the latter wasn't known outside New York. In fact, the writer followed football rather closely when Frisch was in the game and wasn't aware that Frank was alive.

Another exception is Eddie Collins, who played quarterback at Columbia in 1905. Eddie, however, was overlooked when they passed around the posies. It is also our understanding that Carl Lundgren played on one of the Big Ten Conference teams, but that may be fancy rather than fact.

Of recent years we would say that the best combination football-baseball men in the colleges were Mac Aldrich and Harry Legore, both of Yale. However, neither was tempted by major league blandishments; hence their real status as baseball players is unknown.

Coast Ball Magnates Plan Special Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—It was regarded as quite likely that a conference scheduled for today between Oscar Reichow, new business manager of the Los Angeles club, and William H. McCarthy, president of the Pacific coast league, would have an important bearing on the move to call a special session of the league magnates.

Reichow met Cal Ewing, who was instrumental in starting the ball rolling for the special meeting. After the meeting he was quoted as saying that the only reason for a special meeting might be to reconsider the league's stand on drafted players in view of the fact that some teams of the league might need players badly.

He did not favor again taking up Vernon's territorial rights, believing that a matter for legal determination.

LEGION PLAYERS TO JOIN LEAGUE

Glendale Ball Tossers to Meet 1922 Champions In First Game

Glendale post No. 127, American Legion baseball team, opens its account in the Los Angeles County Legion league ledger at Huntington Park, April 1.

On April 8 the fast El Segundo team, last year's state champions, will meet the Glendale post's nine on their home grounds at Wilson and San Fernando.

From now on there will be a game on these grounds every Sunday, the Harrower laboratory boys alternating with the Legionnaires.

Manager V. D. Carr of the Post No. 127 outfit announces practice Wednesday afternoon, March 28, at 4:30 o'clock, on the grounds. All ex-service ballplayers desirous of a tryout should report to Manager Carr, at 606 Sierra avenue.

Some businesses continue good, but there isn't room on the street for all of us to have filling stations.

Religious Growth Is Evident, Says Pastor

COLUMBUS, March 27. — "A tremendous evolution in religion is evident in the preaching of all educated, thinking ministers, regardless of what antiquated creed they officially accept," declared Rev. Charles A. Alden, pastor of the Church of the Golden Rule, sermonizing on "The Evident Evolution in Religion."

"Religious officials today invariably dodge the heresy trial," Rev. Dr. Alden continued. "An Episcopalian rector denies the deity of Christ? a Methodist minister denies the Decalogue. But none of them will be tried for heresy.

"Out of autocratic religion, as out of autocratic education, business, or government, humanity moves ever forward and the spirit of truth is guiding us slowly into all truth," he said.

"A wonderful change has taken place in many of the churches. Such inconsequential matters as clerical attire, use of musical instruments and the amount of water necessary for baptism seldom are debated today.

Tannin, the astringent principle of cocoa, exists as such in the raw bean, but becomes oxidized to form cocoa red to which the color of cocoa is due.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, March 27.—Piggly Wiggly was the center of curiosity on the exchange today, with little trading going on. Studebaker in the motors was steady throughout the session, showing an upward trend of one point, later losing this gain. U. S. Steel was firm, with little or no trading in evidence. California Petroleum, the active stock on the oil list, receded from its 3 point gain of yesterday, to 198½.

Bonds were unsteady, railroads displaying some activity in later dealings.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, March 27—Strength developed in the grain markets late in the session today and prices were higher. The advance was made in spite of the fact that news generally was bearish.

Closing wheat prices here were 7-8 to 1 1-8c higher, corn 1 3-8 up.

Provisions closed weak and irregular.

Foreign Flowers Bloom in Tassano's Nursery on San Fernando Road

Numerous and varied are the business activities that have brought favorable publicity to Glendale, and, though most of it has been due to the remarkable growth of the city's population in a few short years, industrial and agricultural enterprises are not to be ignored.

Glendale is fast coming to the front as a producer of nursery stock. Soil and climatic conditions have proven ideal for the nursery business and scarcely a day passes but what Glendale-grown plants, flowers and trees make their way into some new territory.

Among some of the larger nursery plants in Glendale is that owned and operated by Antonio Tassano on San Fernando road. This plant and beds cover a plot of ten acres. At the present time, Mr. Tassano is spending more than $12,000 for the construction of a special hot house in which he will grow flowers and asparagus.

Imported Flowers

There are thousands of blooms in Mr. Tassano's flower beds at this time and among them are some of the rarest species of gladiolas and vesonias, most of them imported from Italy. These flowers, in fact all that are grown by Mr. Tassano are for the wholesale markets.

Large shipments are made every week to San Francisco, Santa Barbara and Los Angeles, where, it is asserted, Mr. Tassano is known and recognized as a producer of the highest quality flowers. For nine years Mr. Tassano was a resident of the city proper, but four years ago sold his home property and purchased the site of his nursery on San Fernando road.

Two Boys Disappear; Both Kidnaped, Belief

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 27.—Suspicion that Dickey Jensen, 6, and Dean Meecham, 4, two missing San Bernardino boys, were kidnapped, grew stronger today, as scores of school children joined the mammoth searching party which has been combing the vicinity in quest of the children. The searchers were increased to nearly 500 persons today.

Not a sign of the boys has been seen, so far as can be learned, since 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Jensen was at work when the boys left the Jensen home, and James Jensen, the father, is at a hospital recovering from injuries suffered in a crossing accident two weeks ago. He has not been told that the boys are missing.

Babies and Girls Show Same Mania for Speed

RENO, Nev., March 27. — "Take a year-old baby. Put it in a baby buggy and push the buggy at a rapid rate. The youngster will gurgle and chortle with glee.

"Take an 18-year-old girl. Put her in a fast automobile and step on the gas. You'll get practically the same results."

So says James R. Young, professor of psychology at the University of Nevada.

"It is the primitive love of speed handed down through centuries in the evolution of the human race," he says.

LOCAL PAYROLLS GLENDALE'S NEED

Building City's Industries Vital to Prosperity, Says Commissioner

Editor The Evening News—I would like to call the attention of the parents of our Glendale school children to the importance of the industrial question and what it means to them. Many mothers and fathers do not see the relationship of home industry to happy homes.

Children who have been reared in a residence town must help earn a living or learn a trade to fit themselves for their future place in life.

Here is another important subject which is food for thought. How many young women are capable of traveling to a nearby town, spending part of their salaries in transportation to and from their homes and then have enough money left to buy respectable looking clothes? You know the demands of present-day society—that each girl shall dress as well as the other. Girls crave clothing that will make them as presentable as possible so they may meet their friends. No girl or boy boy wishes to be snubbed by another because of lack of clothes or spending money.

Payrolls at Home

The only answer to this condition is employment at home. Home industries mean payrolls. Stores and retail establishments are not enough; you must have factories. Factories, even alone, bring wealth to a community. Let me show you an example—a factory takes raw materials and sells them to outside communities at a profit of 100 per cent to 1000 per cent, the bulk of the money being spent in the community, thus enriching it; but retail businesses such as stores are only able to keep from 10 per cent to 33 per cent at home, being compelled to send the bulk of their money away to the outside.

Now figure out for yourselves whether the city of Glendale should start such a movement or not. What will the school children of today do tomorrow? Who will foot the bills of the future, and how? Do not be led astray in this vital matter by those who, when they have sent a town to ruin, just move on. Having no stake in their community, there is no civic pride in their hearts to hold them here, there or anywhere.

Real estate is not always going to continue to jump in value so that you can keep on trading or subdividing and make a living. To prosper and be happy you must have a payroll and factories. That sign "Made in Glendale, Calif.," must be stamped on products and sent over the country to bring money to your home. You must back home industry.

I want my readers to bear in mind this fact—that I have no political axe to grind. I have taken this commissionership without salary—only for the satisfaction I get out of helping my fellow men.

Plans Own Factory

My own plant which has an international scope will provide me with a livelihood and will be located here and will employ local help. I did not come here through political or social influence. I visited here, liked the people of your city, admired its natural advantages and am going to stay: and while I am here, my shoulder will be kept at the wheel to boost for a bigger and more prosperous Glendale, where my own children will be reared.

Remember also, it is always easy to find fault with our city fathers, who are doing things, but it is both hard and unusual for critics to give constructive suggestions. The man never lived who made no mistake. Be on the watch for the motive behind the knocker.

For my part, I will do this.

Buy Industrial Site

If there is any person in Glendale needing information as to the manufacture of an article or needing expert help of a mechanical nature or desiring to learn how to perfect an invention, I will only be too glad to help them out, and without cost to them for any advice I can give them. All I ask is that you support your city officials and buy the land they have designated for the first industrial center for Glendale.

I have had innumerable calls for industrial sites, but am tied up from really putting them on this city property by the pending injunction suit, which, no doubt, will be properly squashed by the voters, but, in the meantime, Glendale is losing the opportunity of locating these applicants here. There will be plenty of opportunity for the real estate man after the industrial boom is started.

Let us get some of this eastern capital located here to employ our young men and women. Do not send them out in the world when you can have them at home. Vote for this bond issue to purchase this industrial land.

Yours for prosperity.

GUSTAV RASMUS,
Industrial Commissioner of the City of Glendale.

WOULD LIMIT DRUGS

WASHINGTON, March 27—The first definite step toward an international agreement to limit the world's supply of habit-forming drugs was taken here today when representatives of American drug manufacturers met with the federal narcotic control board to determine the exact amount of narcotics needed in the United States annually for legitimate scientific and medical usage.

AMERICAN LEGION

THE AMERICAN LEGION bases its claim for recognition as a national asset not upon the service its members have given to their country, but upon the service it is now giving and intends to give to the community, state and nation throughout the existence of our generation.

The 11,000 odd posts have proved in every home town in the United States that upon that basis we will mold its future. The Legion year now growing to a close contains its full share of post achievements. Membership has attained not only strength, but a solidity of co-operative and universal effort which augurs well for the future years. When the Legion was first formed men joined in the first rush of enthusiasm, some to help its tremendous possibilities for good to materialize, some out of curiosity, some because others joined, but now in the fourth year the Legion is made up of those men and women who intend to see it through—determined that it shall go on and serve the nation—a membership which will work to guide the Legion through the coming years that it may become, excepting only the church, the greatest single force for good that America has ever known.

Fighting the battles of the disabled veteran, finding work for the unemployed, seeking to correct the economic handicap of those who gladly sacrificed, endeavoring to make each post a real asset to its community—all America has watched the Legion and found its work good. The nation has stood behind us just as it stood behind us when we were with the colors, and the nation stands behind us now.

Greater opportunities lie before the Legion for the future than have ever existed for any other organization in the history of our country. With the acceptance of the Legion by all America as the voice and strength of the American veteran of the Great War must come upon our part the acceptance of a great responsibility—that of speaking for a whole generation soon to be called to take over the affairs of the nation. It must be our aim not only to keep alive that wonderful spirit of service which we all had in '17 and '18, but to put it into our individual obligations as American citizens. Then no man need fear for the future of our country.

The post represents to its community the whole American Legion. As eleven thousand home towns look upon their posts, so is the national conception of the organization formed. The great responsibility rests upon the individual post. The post is, after all, the Legion—county, district, departmental, and National Headquarters are simply co-ordinating agencies to carry out the posts' commands.

The days of organization are over. The Legion starts off upon a new year with every prospect for greater and higher service than ever before.

Its precedents are established—its ability to serve well and unselfishly has been demonstrated. Our possibilities for service are almost beyond our own realization. Our strength is almost untouched. The Legion is hardly started upon its career for national service. But it is tying itself together and working together as never before. It is just embarking upon a future based upon the principle of all for one, one for all, and all for the best of the country.

Large Crowd Is Present at Grand View School to Assist in Program

Glendale, offered everyone the opportunity for education.

Miss Gladys Alexander then lightened the program with two lovely songs, "Homing" and "Once in a Blue Moon," after which Mrs. Alma Danford, librarian, spoke a few words full of exquisite sentiment.

She spoke of the tapestry of sixteen years, woven by herself and associates, for Glendale, with the gold and silver threads of loyalty, beauty and service—putting into the tapestry a great dream of this fair city, "a dream that keeps us still dreaming and weaving," she concluded.

Tribute to Workers

Before taking her seat Mrs. Danford paid a fine tribute to Mrs. M. B. Buckman, secretary of the Foothill Improvement Association, and to Miss Frost, who will be in charge of the Grand View branch of the library.

Miss Frost replied with a few words to the effect that libraries are one of the professions that do not advertise, stating that "they also serve who only stand and wait."

At this juncture Mayor Spencer Robinson, who had been detained by other business, arrived and took the floor. In a few words he recalled vividly that little old red school house where the boys would bring books and magazines every Friday, and exchange them with one another.

"That was the sort of library we kids knew," he stated, addressing his remarks particularly to the children. "What a far step forward to what you have today, here in this fine school!"

Program is Varied

City Manager William H. Reeves followed the mayor with a few words, most of which were in the nature of a description of a recent aero inspection tour over the city, taken by Glendale's foremost magistrate. The narration produced roars of laughter.

Little Miss Maude Nicol then rendered a cute sailor song and dance, in a pretty white sailor suit and cap. A little later, she danced again, this time impersonating a boy in overalls.

Little Miss Zelda Meadows danced very prettily, in a sweet pink and white dress that made her look like a tiny doll.

There followed short talks by City Councilmen A. H. Lapham and Clarence E. Kimlin.

The library board was then called upon individually for a few remarks, and Mr. Cushman, Mr. Preston, Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Goss responded.

Little Miss Gene Finch, who previously rendered the "Salute to the Flag," then gave two very clever recitations that "brought down the house."

P. J. Wheldon then rendered a baritone solo, the "Viking Song."

Library Staff Responds

The library staff then responded individually with a few words, after which Mayor and Mrs. Robinson rendered "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," the mayor singing in a strong tenor voice, to his wife's piano accompaniment.

This concluded the program and refreshments were then served, in charge of the Foothill Improvement Association, the Grand View Parent-Teacher Association and other residents of the district.

The new library contains 2000 volumes and is a complete miniature of a larger institution, with all equipment, such as periodicals, newspapers, children's department and other features. Its fixtures and furniture were specially built and include thirteen chairs, two tables and a desk, in addition to the many book shelves.

SOLONS PLAN TO ADJOURN APR. 26

Legislature on Final Lap Of Program as Budget Hearings Close

Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, March 27.—With budget hearings by joint committees coming to a close this week, the state legislature has decided it can do the rest of the business before it in a month's time. April 26 has been set as a tentative date for adjournment.

A constitutional amendment to do away with bifurcated sessions of the legislature is being threshed out, some wanting to do the whole job at one time without going back to the people for a thirty day recess and learning what the people want.

People Satisfied

But the people seem pretty well satisfied with things as they are, even if it is inconvenient for some of the southern members to travel half way to the north pole to Sacramento.

A fight on the three fourths' jury verdict measure is hanging fire and two or three other sparks of life are expected to flare forth during the next few days, but crystal gazers among the newspaper men say that most of the thrills from now on will have to come from the bootleggers.

BOARD TO ADOPT SCHOOL POLICIES

Meeting Called Tonight to Consider Needs of Grammar Schools

The Grammar School Board of Education will meet tonight in its offices at 109-A South Brand boulevard to discuss affairs relating to the local school system.

A definite policy in regard to the employment of architects to prepare plans for the additions contemplated to the schools probably will be decided upon tonight, according to Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools. He stated that no money would be available for the payment of architects until after the bonds are sold and that, if a flaw should be found in the election proceedings, it might be impossible to sell the bonds at all. He emphasized the importance of time and expressed a hope that the preparatory work might be expedited.

Naval Plans Are Not Secret, Japan Reply

TOKIO, March 27.—It was semi-officially stated that Japan does not believe the United States will make inquiry regarding naval ranges despite reports from Washington expressing this belief. The opinion expressed here was that such inquiry would be foolish because Japan's naval plans are open to all and have not been held secret.

Landru Villa Looted By Souvenir Fiends

PARIS, March 27. — Souvenir hunters reaped a great harvest at the Gambais villa, formerly occupied by Bluebeard Landru, who was guillotined to atone for the murder of several wives and a boy.

The owner of the villa, M. Trie, has sued the Ministery of Justice for 45,000 francs, claiming that amount of damage was done by persons who roamed through the villa at will after Landru's execution and took away with them even the lead piping and brass faucets. Nothing but the bare walls remain, according to Trie, who is a cobbler at Melun.

The Ministry of Justice offered to pay Trie 5,000 francs, but the settlement was refused and Trie has appealed the case.

LIMA, Ohio, March 27.—"Petting parties, tea hounds and cake eaters still exist in Lima, but the flapper is gone," declared Miss Ruth Seymour, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. here.

"I have asked flappers why petting parties go on, and they tell me: 'Oh, there is nothing to do and nothing to talk about.' When they look about them and see the actions of some older women they think they are justified in their petting. The flapper was a reaction from too stern repression. They were sweet, high-spirited girls, but had too little principle."

Miss Seymour condemned promiscuous kissing as destroying the moral fibre of the young women of the nation, and deplored conditions which permit young girls to be blase at 16 and bored with life at 20.

The Fable of "TUT"

3000 years ago lived an Egyptian King named Tut-Ankh-Amen. It sounded like a stutter and the gang at the Luxor Golf Club called him "Tut."

When "Tut" reached the cake eater age and got his hair plastered back right he died. Dying was one of the leading indoor sports and "Tut's" death was a major event. They slipped him into a swell Tomb in the "Valley of the Kings."

Three thousand years later a party of snoopers dug up "Tut's" Tomb and all the junk buried with him. The advertising men took hold of "Tut" and in a few weeks he had a Rep that makes "Charlie Chaplain" and "Day by Day Coue" look like a last year's almanac in comparison, with the Result—

The styles are "Tut"—Egyptian influence in the majority. It has taken the country by storm.
